

Indigenous University Preparation Pathway

Apply now!

Are you:

- Considering going to university or exploring different career options?
- Wanting to prepare for university-level Math and Academic Writing?
- Interested in connecting with a cohort group of Indigenous students and learning in a safe and supportive environment?
- Looking to open doors to more learning and working opportunities?

SFU's Indigenous University Preparation Pathway (IUPP)

We welcome First Nations, Métis, and Inuit learners of any age to a supportive university learning environment that integrates humanities and social sciences with Indigenous knowledge and perspectives.

You will join a small cohort of like-minded Indigenous students and explore university together with Elders, mentors, tutors, and instructors while taking eight university courses over two terms.

Where does the IUPP path lead you?

SFU's IUPP is an 8-month full-time hybrid program (online or in-person) that helps Indigenous students prepare and transition to undergraduate studies, while nurturing the skills essential for university learning.

Upon successful completion of the IUPP, you will be admitted into a Bachelors program at SFU and your completed credits will count towards your undergraduate degree.

Our Indigenous, interdisciplinary curriculum will provide you with a diverse foundational knowledge which may be applicable to multiple disciplines.
